

Advantages of membership of the British Sundial Society

- To have free access to more information about sundials than is available on the Internet
- To receive the quarterly full colour BSS Bulletin with articles about dials and dialling
- To receive a quarterly Newsletter about the Society
- To have access to a members section of the Society Web Site
- To be able to meet those of like interests at various society events and to meet in person many famous dial designers
- To be able to purchase society monographs and other material published by the society
- To be able to purchase a copy of the National Register of fixed sundials and subsets of the society's register of mass dials.
- To be able to join and contribute to one or more of a number of free special-interest groups within the society
- To register for the society's annual one day meetings that are held near Newbury and where short presentations are given and dials and other items are exhibited; all with an opportunity to meet fellow members
- To register for the society's annual weekend residential Spring conference. This moves around the country to a different venue each year. At these you can meet around 80 fellow delegates, make friends, talk about issues of interest, view the many exhibits, be able to make purchases of books and other dialling material, listen to a full programme of lectures and take a half day out on a conducted tour of some of the dials in the area.
- To have access to the society's conducted dial safaris organised to visit interesting dials in the UK and Europe
- To be able to take part in and to register your vote for, the society's biennial sundial photographic competition
- To be able to learn of and go on sundial trails in parts of the UK and Europe
- To have free access to the Society's collection of over 400 books on dialling which is held in the Bromley House Library in Nottingham.
- To have free access to all of the many other items in the Bromley House Library and when there, to be able to use all their facilities - including a free cup of tea!!
- By reason of our affiliation with the Royal Astronomical Society, to have free access to their library in Burlington House London.
- To be able to offer your services to the Council of the Society in any of a number of roles.